

Information from a Media Monitoring Organisation for their clients carrying on business in New Zealand (including those also carrying on business in other countries)

Copyright and use of publisher content – MCA End User Licence (EULA)

Under the terms of our Licence Agreement with Media Copyright Agency (the "MCA") we are required to draw your attention to the following matters.

The MCA publisher content that we supply may be used for your internal business purposes only. Further, it is your responsibility to ensure you are appropriately licensed for any use or copying of that content, or access to relevant websites, that you propose to do.

Our licence from the MCA does not entitle us to sublicense our rights to you if you are carrying on business in New Zealand (even if you are also carrying on business elsewhere). In particular, we don't have authority from the MCA to permit you to:

1. copy (whether by scanning, photocopying, storing, or otherwise) or disseminate (by email or otherwise) publisher's content or media monitoring material, or do any other act in relation to any publisher content or media monitoring material which would (in the absence of a licence from the publisher) amount to copyright infringement; or
2. use any content from any publisher website or print publication (whether sourced by us or directly by you as a result of using our reports/service) in any way that would be a breach of the relevant publishers' terms and conditions.

If you wish to do any of these things with the New Zealand publications represented by the MCA, you would need to obtain a licence from the MCA or directly from the relevant publisher(s) (unless you have an appropriate licence from other copyright owner(s) or from the MCA's authorised representative overseas).

An application for a licence from the MCA may be obtained online at <https://licence.mediacopyrightagency.co.nz/Licence>.

The New Zealand publications represented by the MCA are listed here: <https://mediacopyrightagency.co.nz/publications>. The MCA can also provide information about which overseas publications it represents in New Zealand and which entities are authorised to represent it overseas.

We are required to provide the MCA with your details, to assist in the administration of the MCA copyright licensing scheme.

If information comes to our attention which leads us to believe that you are undertaking unlicensed activity in respect of MCA publications, we are required by the terms of our licence from the MCA to disclose that information to the MCA and may be required to stop providing material to you.

Some publishers may require you to register or pay to use certain content on their website, in which case you will need to do that before you can access and read that content. We are not able to grant you that access.